

We serve a wide variety of professional service clients, including medical practices, law firms, architecture firms, engineering firms, and management and business consulting organizations. Because BST is a professional service firm, we have a deep understanding of your goals, challenges and concerns. The cliché “Practice what you preach” rings true within these professional services.

We understand the importance of billable hours, hourly rates and leverage; the steps required to turn intangible services into tangible and marketable products, and the struggle to run your own practice/firm.

The professionals at BST can help you address financial issues, as well as the operational and management issues that impact your ability to grow without sacrificing profitability. We believe that to stay competitive you must not only be aware of trends and efficiency benchmarks, but also constantly work to attract and retain the right talent.
